

Model Test 8—Computer-Assisted TOEFL

Section 1: Listening

1. (A) Because the woman refuses to sign and tells the man that he has to get his advisor's signature, we must conclude that she is not the man's advisor. In Choice (B), although she says she is sorry, that is not the reason she cannot sign the form. Choice (C) contradicts the fact that the man asks her to sign a course request form. In Choice (D), it is true that he needs his advisor's signature, but that is not the reason the woman cannot sign the form.
2. (C) No way is an idiomatic expression that means it is not going to happen. Choice (A) misinterprets the phrase no way to mean directions. Choice (B) contradicts the fact that he will not withdraw from the course he is in. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that he gives the woman a definitive answer to her question.
3. (A) Since the man is asking what happened in Dr. Peterson's class, it must be concluded that the man did not go to class. Choice (B) contradicts the fact that the woman is in Dr. Peterson's class. Choices (C) and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
4. (C) Since the man suggests that they sit closer to the front and the woman agrees, they will probably move to the front of the room. Choice (B) contradicts the fact that they are already sitting together. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that the woman agrees with the man. Choice (A) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
5. (B) Because the man objected to the cold winter but said he liked Montreal the rest of the year, it must be concluded that he liked Montreal in the spring, summer, and fall. Choice (A) contradicts the fact that the man objected to the cold winter. Choice (C) contradicts the fact that the man liked Montreal most of the time. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that the man said "yes" when he was asked if he liked living in Montreal.
6. (C) You bet means certainly. Choice (A) misinterprets the word bet to mean a wager. Choices (B) and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
7. (C) The woman says she got a nicotine patch. Choices (A), (B), and (D) refer to the methods that the man has used to quit smoking in the past.
8. (C) To not be too big on something means to not like it very much. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that he responds to the woman's question. Choices (A) and (B) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
9. (D) Way to go means congratulations. Choices (A), (B), and (C) misinterpret the meaning of the phrase way to go.
10. (A) "You must be thinking of my roommate [who got an assistantship]." Choice (B) contradicts the fact that she will be studying full time. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that the man has confused the woman with her roommate. Choice (C) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
11. (C) I wish I knew is an idiomatic expression that means one does not know. Choices (A), (B), and (D) are not paraphrases of the expression and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
12. (C) To be on one's way is an idiomatic expression that means to be ready to leave. Choices (A), (B), and (D) are not paraphrases of the expression and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
13. (C) "...you could get a plant." Choice (D) refers to the fact that the man considered taking candy to his friends, not to the woman's suggestion. Choices (A) and (B) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
14. (B) Since the woman's room number is 119, and the man points out that the odd numbers are on the other side, the woman will probably look on the other side of the hall. Choices

- (A), (C), and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
15. (D) Since the woman assures the man that it takes a long time to process the application, she implies that he should be patient. Choice (B) contradicts the fact that it takes six weeks, not three weeks, to process. Choices (A) and (C) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
16. (A) Since the woman offers her passport, it must be concluded that she wants to use it for ID. Choice (C) refers to the method of payment, not to the identification required. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that she is paying with a traveler's check. Choice (B) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
17. (B) I couldn't have been more pleased is an idiomatic expression that means the speaker was very pleased. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that the man was pleased with the meeting. Choices (A) and (C) were not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
18. (C) "You are here because you are accused of plagiarism." Choice (A) refers to the fact that the professor gave him a failing grade, not to the reason why the student is in the dean's office. The dean gives the student some advice, but Choice (B) is not mentioned as a reason for his being in the dean's office. Choice (D) is incorrect because the dean refers to the fact that plagiarism is intellectual theft, not to the theft of a book.
19. (A) "That [using ideas with a citation] is what I don't understand." Choice (D) refers to the dean's suggestion that the student get a tutor, not to the student's excuse. Choices (B) and (C) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
20. (C) "I'm going to give you a warning this time." Choice (A) refers to the dean's decision to expel the student if she ever sees him in her office for a similar offense. Choice (B) refers to the professor's, not the dean's, punishment of the student. Choice (D) refers to the advice, not the punishment, that the dean gave the student.
21. (B) "I suggest that you go over to the Learning Resources Center for some tutoring." Choices (A), (C), and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
22. (B) "I'm trying to decide whether to stay here or to transfer to a larger school." Choices (A), (C), and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
23. (C) "...your teachers know you, and they really seem to care about you." Choices (A) and (D) refer to the advantages of a larger school, not to what she likes about the college she is attending. Choice (B) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
24. (C) "...I'm planning to go to graduate school, so my plan is to get really good grades here and try to get into a well-known university for my master's degree." Choice (A) contradicts the fact that he listens to the woman. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that he tries to understand her point of view, and shares his plans. Choice (B) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
25. (A) "...try to get into a well-known university for my master's degree." Choice (C) contradicts the fact that his plan is to get good grades in the undergraduate program at his current school. Choices (B) and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
26. (B) "In anthropology, however, culture is defined in a very different way. To an anthropologist, culture refers to...." Choices (A), (C), and (D) are secondary themes used to support the main theme of the lecture, culture in anthropology.
27. (D) "In informal conversation, the word culture refers to a desirable personal attribute ...and that's what most people think of when they hear the word culture." Choices (A), (B), and (C) refer to the definition of culture in anthropology, not in informal conversation.
28. (C) "For a thought or activity to be included as part of a culture, it must be commonly shared by or considered appropriate for the group." Choice (A) refers to a subculture, not a culture. Choice (B) refers to the word culture as it is understood in informal

- conversation. Choice (D) refers to the United States and societies like it.
29. (A) "...in...the United States, which comprises many diverse ethnic groups, there are practices common to all Americans, and these practices constitute American culture." Choice (B) refers to a subculture, not to the culture of the United States. Choice (C) contradicts the fact that the practices are common to all Americans. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that the practices are common to all, not just the majority, of Americans.
30. (C) "...the smaller groups within the larger society have shared customs that are specific to their group...a subculture." Choices (A) and (B) refer to an informal definition of culture, not to subcultures. Choice (D) refers to a definition of culture by an anthropologist, not to a definition of a subculture.
31. (B) "If the current trends continue, however, that estimate will fall far short of actual numbers..." Choices (A) and (C) contradict the fact that the estimate is lower than the actual numbers, not the same or higher. The fraction in Choice (D) refers to the AIDS cases accounted for by homosexual men in the 1980s, not to the actual numbers compared with the estimate.
32. (D) (A) (C) (B) "In the 1980s, homosexual men...accounted for...two thirds of all AIDS cases.... today almost ninety percent of new adult infections result from heterosexual contact.... the rates of exposure and infection are rising for women, with an accompanying rise in the number of children...with HIV..."
33. (C) (D) "...women are biologically more susceptible to all sexually transmitted diseases...and the traditional role of the man as the partner in control of the sexual activity inhibits women in many cultures...." The multiple partners in Choice (A) refer to those of older men, not women. The cultures in Choice (B) refer to restrictions for women using protection, not to restrictions on the use of protection.
34. (A) (C) "By the twenty-first century, it is now expected that the majority of AIDS victims will be heterosexual women and their young children." Choices (B) and (D) are not mentioned in the estimate and may not be concluded from information in the talk.
35. (A) "...most travelers are not able to adjust to the shorter or longer day." Choice (B) refers to a situation that affects the severity of jet lag, not to the cause. Choices (C) and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the discussion.
36. (C) "...people over thirty who tend to have a more established routine are likely to suffer the most from jet lag." Choice (A) contradicts the fact that people over thirty, not younger people, suffer the most. Choice (B) contradicts the fact that an adjustment from air travel east to west is a little easier. Choice (D) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the discussion.
37. (B) (C) "...to minimize the effects of jet lag...[try] scheduling an early evening arrival...drink lots of water." Choice (A) contradicts the fact that a full stomach increases the symptoms of jet lag. Choice (D) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the discussion.
38. (A) "...studies show that we require half a day for each time zone crossed." Choices (B), (C), and (D) contradict the research results.
39. (C) "One of the most successful educational programs for adults is the Elderhostel...." Choice (A) contradicts the fact that the classes are taught by highly qualified faculty at the host college, not by retired professors. Although Elderhostel was originally a summer program, Choice (B) contradicts the fact that it is now offered year round. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that Elderhostel is an educational program with travel included, not a travel program.
40. (B) (D) "Although courses are not offered for credit, and no exams are required, the classes are taught by highly qualified faculty at the host college." Choice (A) contradicts the fact that the courses are not offered for credit. Choice (C) contradicts the fact that Elderhostel is for people over the age of sixty.
41. (C) "Elderhostel [is] designed for students over the age of sixty." Choice (C) is a person sixty years or older. The other people in the picture, Choices (A), (B), and (D), are too young to enroll in Elderhostel.

42. (B) "...call your local college." Choices (A), (C), and (D) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the talk.
43. (A) "...the resemblance of pyrite to gold causes prospectors worldwide to mistake fool's gold [pyrite] for real gold." Choice (C) contradicts the fact that it is a very common mineral. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that the specimen [of pyrite] shows well-defined crystal formations. Choice (B) is true, but it is referred to as an advantageous characteristic, not a problem.
44. (D) "I will be putting another specimen in the mineral lab for you after today's lecture." Choices (A), (B), and (C) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the lecture.
45. (C) Choice (C) is the most similar to the specimen that the professor showed in class. Choices (A) and (B) are not minerals.
46. (B) (C) "...pyrite is much more brittle than gold.... and when pyrite is struck with a hammer, it will create sparks." Choice (A) refers to a property of gold, not to that of pyrite. Choice (D) contradicts the fact that pyrite is found in all kinds of geological environments and is considered a very common mineral.
47. (A) "...all you have to do [to tell the difference between pyrite and gold] is heat your sample." Choices (B) and (D) refer to the smell of sulfuric acid that pyrite produces when heated, but using acid or smelling the sample are not mentioned as tests for pyrite. Choice (C) refers to the description of the pyrite specimen that the professor has brought to class, but the fact that so many prospectors worldwide mistake pyrite for gold implies that it cannot be identified by looking at it.
48. (C) Since the man begins the conversation by asking whether anyone has turned in a lost book, it must be concluded that the lost book is the reason for the conversation. Choice (A) is true, but it is not the reason for the conversation. Choice (B) contradicts the fact that the man knows where the Student Union is. Choice (D) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.
49. (C) "...I think I left it [my book] under the table...when I was in here [the cafeteria]." Choice (B) refers to the location of the lost-and-found, not to where the man left his book. Choice (D) refers to where the man noticed that his book was missing. Choice (A) is not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.

50. (A) (D) "There's a lost-and-found in the Student Union.... If you don't find it there today, you should probably check again tomorrow." Choices (B) and (C) are not mentioned and may not be concluded from information in the conversation.

Section 2: Structure

- (C) Similar is used after the two nouns protoplasm and glue to compare them. Choice (A) is redundant because the pronoun they is used consecutively after the nouns to which it refers. Choice (B) has the same meaning as the correct answer, but similar to is used before, not after, the second noun compared. Choice (D) does not have a verb. (Refer to Patterns, Problem 87, page 185.)
- (D) Oil is a noncount noun because it is a liquid that can change shape, depending on the shape of the container. (Refer to Patterns, Problem 53, page 140.)
- (C) Every sentence must have a main verb. Choices (A), (B), and (D) are not main verbs. (Refer to Patterns, Problem 1, page 72.)
- (D) In order to refer to a gallon of water being moved to a higher place, raise not rise should be used. To raise means to move to a higher place. To rise means to go up without assistance; to increase. (Refer to Style, Problem 22, page 278.)
- (D) Unless introduces a subject and verb that express a change in conditions. Choices (A), (B), and (C) do not have a subject and verb. (Refer to Patterns, Problem 26, page 105.)
- (A) The word order for a passive sentence is BE followed by a participle. Choice (B) is a participle, but the form of BE is missing. Choice (C) is redundant because the pronoun it is used consecutively after the subject path. Choice (D) is an -ing form, not a passive. (Refer to Patterns, Problem 31, page 112.)
- (B) From introduces cause. Choices (A),
